ACCLAIM BIG "Y" CIRCUS "BEST EVER"

Bungling Brothers' Surpass All Former Shows in This Year's Efforts.

Far surpassing anything attempted before, Bungling brothers circus made its debut at the Y. M. C. A. Friday night to a crowd that filled the balcony and was so large as to extend into the ring. Friday night's program, with additions will be repeated at 8 p. m. Saturday.

While the "big top" show in the gymnasium was the favorite attraction, of course, other features added interest. In the boys' department are all kinds of side-shows and devices to test skill in throwing and pounding. Cracker-jack, pop, ice cream, pies, peanuts and popcorn, without which no circus would be a circus, are much in evidence, and find a ready sale. One thing admirable for a proposition of this kind, was noted—it is not one of those affairs 25 cents to get in, $2.50 to get out. You can get plenty of amusement just out of the admission price.

Much More Spectacular. University gymnasts were unable to be present Friday and will make the Saturday bill that is much more interesting. Their excellence is known here, as they once performed at the Tottendale circus at the Samson foundation. Shows much more finish than last year's. Costumes have been gone into more thoroughly, and the whole thing shows more training and leadership. Boys kept together well in their drills and all those little things that make any performance enjoyable, were in evidence. Numbers were much more spectacular with the lantern drill and the final tub-corn being most prominent.

Those who took part were: Junior B performers, Junior B's giving lantern drill, vaulting the elephant, and in ladder pyramids: Everett Barber, Wallace Grasteland, Charles Huggill, Robert Jarvis, Ben Meek, John McNeill, William Ostreich, Gordon Spaulding, Paul Seaman, Frederick Smith, Crosby Summers, John Worden, Howard Hagen, Hugh Blakeley, Harold Gotsick, R. Jensen, Harold Sager, William Wato, Lloyd Gillingham, Don Marker, Otto Peterson and V. Chase.

Pupils of Miss E. Josephine Fitzgerald, in a number of dances and readings: Marlene Dillon, Vivian Cronk, Lucie Blackford, Helen Keeler, Kathleen McGee and Hazel Crowe, with Mrs. George Welch at the piano. Walsh twins, Palat, Mosher, Bernard Daley, Delbert Truesdell, Sterling

Edgerton Girl Gaining Renown as Writer, Poet

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton—Writing mostly poetry, but having been successful too in prose, Mrs. Reed J. MacDonald, Chicago, is attracting wide recognition in the field of literature. She writes under the name of Jessica Nelson North, and to Edgerton where she was reared, she is known as the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. North.

Her first published work, a book of poems, "A Prayer Book," comes out this month, and is printed in Chicago. Wide has been the praise of this young woman. In a recent issue of "The Bookman," William Rose Bennett, former editor of the "Century," and now associate editor of the "Literary Digest," and the New York Evening Post, says: "The best poem of the month by women seem to be by Jessica Nelson North's 'Vogel' in poetry."

"Circle," in publishing "Tribute," says in comment that Jessica Nelson North and two others were the leaders who several years ago brought the University of Chicago into recognition as one of the centers where real poetry was written. Mrs. MacDonald is a graduate of the Edgerton high school and Lawrence college and took post graduate work at the University of Chicago in the field of literature. She was for three years private secretary to former President Harry L. Judson, of Chicago university, and for the past two years has been publisher of the Art Institute, Chicago.

Mrs. MacDonald owes her early inspiration in writing to her mother, Mrs. S. Elizabeth North, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, and an enthusiast in history, mythology and literature. Her prose work has been appearing in Asia, Harper's Bazaar, Arts and Decoration, and her poetry in Century, Poetry, Measures, Circle Sunset and other magazines. Besides her many duties, she is editor-in-chief of "The Adolphian," the national organ of the Alpha Delta Phi sorority, and of the "Bulletin," the official publication of the Chicago Art Institute.

Jessica North was married to Reed J. MacDonald, Chicago civil engineer, June 10, 1921.

McKEEVER SPREADS

GOSPEL OF PLAY

made a few introductory remarks explaining that the Farm Bureau is as much a part of the welfare of the homes and children on the farms as in the agricultural and business interests. He expressed appreciation for the cooperation and support given by the Gazette to the Farm Bureau movement since its inception, and said that the newspaper was now doing further work to help make farm life more worth while by promoting social and educational activities through its community service department.

Three Play

Dr. McKeever took for his subject "Children as Farm Products," and made an effective plea for the all around development of country children.

He advocated weekly social gatherings for young people, frequent playdays and picnics during the summer and adequate playground apparatus for every rural school.

He said that one of the chief reasons why the boys and girls have been flocking from the farms to the cities in such large numbers is because they have had too much work and too little play on the farm.

"Don't work them hard all week and then turn them loose Saturday night to amuse themselves in the city," said Dr. McKeever. "Plan for pleasant playtime affairs right here in your own community. You can get more corn by having your 12-year old boy do a man's work every day, but you are going to get less boy. Wealth of character products wait in good, but wealth of goods cannot produce character."

60 at Luncheon Here

At luncheon attended by 60 educators from different parts of southern Wisconsin was held in honor of Dr. McKeever and Dr. Edgar B. Gordon of Madison, Saturday noon in the Y. M. C. A. here under auspices of the Gazette.

This was Dr. McKeever's first appearance in Janesville but this city will have a full day's program Tuesday, including addresses to high school pupils during the forenoon, noon addresses to the Rotary club, Sunday school workers' conference supper at 6:15 in the Methodist church and community mass meeting at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

Sunday will be given to Elkhorn and Monday to Clinton.

SCREEN AND STAGE

PROGRAMS AT JANESVILLE THEATRES WEEK OF MAY 6-12.

Monday through Thursday—
"The Voice from the Minaret," Norma Talmadge and Eugene O'Brien.

Friday through Sunday—
"Drive," starring Charles Mack, Elinor Fair and Burr McIntosh.

Monday through Thursday—
"The Voice from the Minaret," Norma Talmadge and Eugene O'Brien.

Friday and Saturday—
"Drive," starring Charles Mack, Elinor Fair and Burr McIntosh.

Sunday—
"The Voice from the Minaret," Norma Talmadge and Eugene O'Brien.

Norma Talmadge in "The Sign of the Cross"

Swiftly moving, the plot traverses vast expanses, with London, Bombay and Damascus the locales. Miss Talmadge is cast in the part of Lady Adrienne, who suffers ignominy at the hands of her husband, flees from him, finds love in the desert, becomes the victim of a treacherous plot and is the center of other misadventures of a highly thrilling nature.

Scene from "Drive" at the Myers.

scenes are said to be gorgeous and many opportunities are given the star to wear stunning clothes.

Richard Barthelmess and Dorothy Gish in "Fury"

At the Myers
mie Smith, played by Jacqueline Logan, a Ford roadster and himself in a heap after crashing through the side of a barn and landing none too gently on a pile of hay.

direction and photography "Driven," the Charles Brabin-Universal-Jewel production, has attained a place as one of the outstanding successes of the year. Its showing at the Myers theater here next week is being looked forward to with interest.

"Driven" is an epic of the Blue Ridge Mountains. It depicts life as it really is lived in the district where the only law is the law of a family and where shooting a "revenuer" is considered something praiseworthy.

An excellent cast of notable players enacts this stirring drama. There is Elinor Fair, dainty and capable little star, Burr McIntosh, whose fame on the legitimate stage made him known the length and breadth of the land; Chas. E. Mack of Dream Street renown and joined for this production by David Wark Griffith; Emily Fitzroy, noted screen and stage star; and George Bancroft, one of the best willows of the day.

This picture will start on Monday, not on Sunday as has been the policy for the past two weeks. It will continue for four days and on Friday, for two days only will be seen "Driven" in "Sonnet" and "The Vaudeville." This is because of the opening of "Bella Donna," with Pola Negri on the following Sunday. "Driven in Sonnet" is a story of mother love, with a new angle when the mother runs away for adventure and returns in time to help her daughter, then proven up. Lucille Dickson, Eve Southern, Roy Stewart and others support Miss Williams.

AT THE BEVERLY
The famous Lincolnton district of London, the great shops of Glasgow frequented by the roughs of the sea, the rolling and majestic Atlantic as seen from an old-time four-masted schooner—these are the backgrounds of Richard Barthelmess' "The Sign of the Cross," the first National attraction to be shown at the Beverly theater next week.

"The Sign of the Cross" is by Edmund Gossling—a highly dramatic tale of the sea, rivalling, if not surpassing, anything Barthelmess has yet done for the screen. The story deals with the transformation of "Boy" Layton from the rough and ready mate of a sailing vessel, who is held in contempt even by his own father to a courageous man of fearless purpose when he learns of a wrong done his mother and seeks to avenge her.

Other prominent players in the cast of this production, which was filmed under the direction of Henry King, are: Roy Stewart, George E. Stone, Harry MacCallum and Jesse Arnold.

Marshall Neilan's production, released by First National, "The Kid," which stands out prominently. It is a thriller and is full of human interest and comedy and has enough pathos to hold the attention throughout its length. The story features Custer's last stand on the Little Big Horn River when the gallant general and his small command were wiped out by the Indians under "Sitting Bull." It is full of historic interest and has been realistically produced. James Kirkwood as Bob Hampton makes a romantic figure of the hero, and the acting of Marjorie Day as "The Kid" is pleasing. Wesley Barry as Dick, a wif, keeps the spectators in good nature. The rest of the cast is excellent.

AT THE MAJESTIC
Next week at the Majestic will be Universal week, when every picture shown will be of that make. Many excellent ones are on the bill, ranging from exciting westerns to melodramas.

After that week, Mrs. Ben Smith, manager, plans to run three Paramount pictures each week, in addition to a number of the largest Motors, United Artists, Universal and others. Some will be second runs, others will be new. Some of the Paramounts that will be seen in the near future are "Clarence," with Wallace Reid; "The Old Homestead," Theodore Roberts and others; "Man-Heater," Thomas Meighan, and "Leatrice Joy," "Blood and Sand," Rudolph Valentino, "Foot's Paradise," Conrad Nagel, Dorothy Dalton and Mildred Harris; "When Knighthood Was in Flower," Marion Davies; and "Back Home and Broke," Thomas Meighan.

George Switzer Darby, Brodhead, also a member of the junior class, and Allison Joannette Geiger, Alice Maude Goodell, Marjorie Oscar Edward Kossling, Jefferson and Rodney Arthur Slag, Fort Atkinson, are among the seniors who are made members.

Membership in the Phi Beta Kappa, membership in which is the sign of highest honors in scholarship, will be given keys at initiation to be held soon.

YOUNG MOVIE STAR APPEARS AT MYERS
An opportunity to see a movie star is offered this week-end, in the Janesville bill at the Myers. In the second act, Baby Margie Reed, seen in juvenile parts with Anita Stewart and Norma Talmadge, appears in a clever sketch with her mother, father and little brother. The brother runs away with much of the honors with his clever drumming and dancing while the little girl and her parents are also good in their program of songs, piano numbers and dances. Other acts on the bill, of musical and comic nature, are good, while the picture offered is "Blind Bargain," with Lon Chaney.

PIONEER OF FORT ATKINSON IS DEAD

MRS. THOMAS SERNS
Fort Atkinson — Mrs. Thomas Serns, who celebrated her 97th birthday Wednesday, died at her home in this city at 4 p. m. Friday. She was the oldest pioneer of the city, having come to the town of Atkinson in 1837. Mrs. Serns was born in Windsor, Canada, and was married when she was a young woman to John Serns, a farmer. They had several children, but only one, Mrs. Serns, survived. She and her husband made the journey to Wisconsin in pioneer days and Mr. Serns obtained employment as a wood engraver in the Madison Democrat. Mr. Serns died, 20 years after their marriage and later she married Thomas Serns. They lived on their farm in Serns for many years, but have resided in this city for the last 20 years.

Mrs. Serns had no children, but is survived by Mr. Serns, who is 87 years of age. Surviving are two stepdaughters, Mrs. Frank Pascha, Chicago, and Mrs. Frank Smith, Milton Junction. Funeral services will be held at the home, at 2 p. m. Monday. The Rev. Reetz officiating. Interment will be in Lake View cemetery.

MILTON SEWERAGE CONTRACTS LET

Work on Waterworks and Sewer System in Village to Start Soon.

Milton—The village board has been busy considering the construction proposals on the waterworks, pump and sewerage system. Most of the contracts have been let and it is expected work will start in a few days. William Deason, Madison, who will build the disposal plant and other buildings, will start work as soon as it can get enough material on the ground. The first day of water pipe was laid on April 28. The Gray-Robinson company built the Janesville and White-water waterworks plants. They built the sewer system at Mukwonago last year.

The Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel company will furnish the tank and tower, which will be erected on the hill near the James Palmer woods. This location will furnish adequate pressure for fire protection. The centrifugal pumps will be furnished by the Dayton-Dawd company. Guiding the tank compressor, five hydraulic valves, will have been ordered from various manufacturers, so that, with the exception of a few small things, the contracts have all been let.

In spite of the fact that some materials have gone up, the board has been able to let the contracts so that the whole job will come within the original estimate, unless some unforeseen difficulty is encountered.

Finsh Pouring Concrete Base on First Street Job

Thomas Fountain & Hayes have completed laying the concrete base for the two blocks of paving on North First street, from North Elm street to North Wisconsin street, and are ready to begin laying the asphalt macadam surface as soon as the concrete is sufficiently cured. The job was authorized by the old council in 1922 but was held over until this year owing to delay in receiving pipe. A rough surface street was desired in order to give horses a better footing, the grade being unusually steep.

ground, but all absences disapproved of the bill.

Here's Committee Vote
Following is the committee lineup:
To kill the bill—Senators Kucuk and Polakowski; Assemblymen Matheson, Ruffing, A. C. Smith, Caldwell and Liche.
To pass the bill—Senators Huber, Schumann, and Casperson; Assemblymen Gumpfer, Price and Telfer.

Assemblyman David Sumnerville, opposed to the measure, was ill and confined to the hospital so he was unable to vote.

Severson, Dahl to Appear
Senator H. L. Severson and Speaker John Dahl will appear before the joint committee on finance Monday to tell what disposition they wish to have made of their two tax bills, now that Governor Blaine's measure has been recommended for indefinite postponement. It was learned Saturday.

Agreement has been reported between these two former administration leaders that the income surtax bill, sponsored by Senator Severson, should come to the floor first. Senator Severson said he probably would ask the committee to send his measure to the senate without recommendation. Speaker Dahl, it is understood, will request that his bill be held until it is determined how the surtax proposal fares in the legislature.

Severson says the Severson surtax bill stands the best chance of mustering the necessary 17 votes to get through the upper house.

CORRECTION
In the two advertisements of E. A. Roesling appearing on page 5 of the May 4th edition of the Gazette, the signatures appeared incorrectly, the signature of the Western Avenue store address under the Racine Street store advertisement and the Racine Street address under the Western Avenue store copy. These should have been reversed.

PUPILS ASKED NOT TO PARK ON STREETS BORDERING SCHOOL

High school pupils have again been asked not to park automobiles on Main street, either side, near the school, nor on Racine street, west of Main. They are using Oakland avenue and Racine street, east of Main, although the number of cars taken to school and parked there all day is decreasing, which is considered a good sign. The regulation about parking is a state one, because of the fire hazard and the impossibility to get fire trucks close to the building if cars are parked around it.

Buying Pretty Pictures.

The same old story of fraud in the sale of stock has come up most emphatically in the indictment of 23 persons who have been arrested at Ft. Worth, Texas, and will be tried early in June before two federal judges.

But it remains a fact that there would be no fraud in such cases so far as victims are concerned were there not greedy suckers enough and a plenty, who stand ready to listen to the gambling talk in hope of making a profit far beyond what money in the ordinary course of investment would bring. For every success in oil speculation there are several thousand failures. For every man profiting to the extent of a regular monthly ticket out of oil, there are several hundred on the ragged edge of beggary, and few so poor as to do them reverence.

No man or woman would lose a dollar in an oil fraud if they first make the proper investigation or consult some one who would act for them.
The local banker may be over-conservative at times but he is safe generally as a counselor in such matters.

Perhaps Mr. Volstead will try dry farming since he has retired.

The Jew Farmer

One thing of the Jewish emigrant to this country as a city dweller only and never as a farmer.
Yet Gabriel Davidson, general manager of the Jewish agricultural society, reports that there are now 75,000 Jewish farmers tilling a million acres of land with a farm loan department in operation having 6,627 farm loans aggregating $4,143,000 in 38 states. These loans are made on sub-standard securities and repayment is spread over a long period of years with no bonus or commission for renewal. This farm aid is one of the most important works done by the Jewish associations and there are thousands of the people now packed in the tenements of the great cities, who would be far better off in rural districts. It is almost impossible to get the second generation of Jews to go away from the larger cities or to engage in farming. The agricultural work must begin with the immigrant in order to keep the family away from the crowds and city life and a fixed habit of living in the Chetnos.

Bonar Law is going to take a vacation on the sea. Britain has been at sea for some time over the future of Bonar Law.

One Center of Soundness.

In the storm of radicalism which seems to have engulfed the legislature there is one committee which has been sailing a craft, staunch and sound. This is the senate state affairs committee, in part, at least, made up of men who have served the state for more than one term and who have been able to combat the tidal wave of undigested and irresponsible legislation with some measure of success. The members of this committee are W. A. Tittus, of Fond du Lac, chairman; H. E. Roethlis, who has done the state a most excellent service by introducing no bills; W.
L. Smith, of Neillsville, who has been frankly conservative and elected by voters who while in the majority for Lee Follette have faith and confidence in the good sense of "Bill"; Herman T.
Lange, of Eau Claire, a man of affairs and with a keen business sense, who has been able to do excellent work for the state; Herman Bilgrien, of Dodge county; John C. Schuman, of Jefferson county and Bernard Gettelman, of Milwaukee.
This is the "Killer Committee." It plays the frank legislation with the same energy and sense of professional necessity that a surgeon cuts out a tumor or a cyst. To this committee the state owes much for the failure to carry out all the program of the nonpartisan league and socialists.

Why not send a lot of laws to the dead letter office?

Water Power and Industry.

In the last few years, through the development of its water power the Fox river valley has become a great industrial highway, its chief activity has come by taking full advantage of its products. This revolution in the valley changing it from a farming and small industrial community has come by reason of the development of its water power. There are other valleys and other places that may well be equal to the Fox river in their greatness. Emphasizing the importance

HISTORIC SIGNATURES

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington.—Experts in handwriting assert there is something personal and intimate in the word inscribed by the hand of man and especially in his signature. That probably is the reason why the special exhibit of ancient documents written or signed by famous people of past history, now on view at the library of congress at Washington, seems to bridge the years in a manner which the most precise and elaborate histories fail to achieve.

The library has obtained for purposes of exhibit, the John Boyd Thacher collection of ancient documents. There is only a thin strip of glass between the observer and the distant past.
History itself lies spread before him in letters.
Columbus discovered America in 1492. That event was noted in a document in the exhibit was written and signed by Ferdinand and Isabella, King and Queen of Spain—the patrons who made possible the great discoverer's voyage. The document is written in a beautiful black letter Spanish script and signed in large, flowing lines
by the two sovereigns.

The oldest document and signature in the collection on view was written and signed in 1374 more than 100 years before the existence of America was dreamed of by Columbus or anyone else. It is a formal document signed by Charles V, King of France. This, together with letters patent issued to the Duc de Bretagne by Isabel de Valere, Queen of France, and signed
Feb. 17, 1404, are the most beautiful specimens in the collection of those days, before the invention of the Gutenberg printing press or before the arts of reading and writing were generally practiced, the documents of kings and queens were written by priests and monks. These monks spent years—lifetimes—in the study of perfecting letters for their illuminated manuscripts.
These two documents of French royalty, although merely part of the day's work at the court, are masterpieces of hand lettering.

Another document, signed by the Queen of France, Queen of Navarre, daughter, wife and mother of kings, the letter is written in French and subscribed: "Your sister and cousin." The signature, "Elizabeth R." is the most magnificent of all signatures in the world. The capital E is over an inch high and the letters are so large that the name covers nearly three inches. The Z is finished with a series of flourishes which underline and decorate the whole composition. Under the R, which, of course, stands for Regina, or Queen, is a similar flourish and the top of the letter H extends up in a flourish which overhangs the whole name like the branches of a tree. The letters are carefully printed and are straight up and down, very neat but very bold. The whole golden age of Queen Elizabeth seems to glow in these letters and the signature looks down across the years still speaking of tremendous power and majesty. The letter is dated June 27, 1588.
The only signature at all approaching that of Elizabeth's in a sense of imparted majesty is that of Francis the First, King of France at the height of the Renaissance.

Not long after Elizabeth signed the letter to Catherine de Medici, the most romantic of queens, Mary, Queen of Scots, wrote one to the King of France. The whole letter is in her own hand, it is somewhat childish appearing script. The first lines run uphill, then go straight across and by the time the concluding line: "Vostre bien affec-tionne et bonne" was written it was running downhill across the page. The letter and the signature, merely a dainty "Marie," are in a slanting Spencerian script, one of the earliest examples, all of the earlier writing, French, English and Spanish, being straight up and down like rudder poles.

Of absorbing interest are the writings and signatures in the collection which the hands of Henry the Eighth and several of his wives in-dited. It seems almost incredible that these flimsy, yellowed sheets of paper were once held in the great, rough hands of King Henry the Eighth; in the dainty fingers of Catherine of Aragon.

There is a deed of land to Sir Anthony Browne, dated October 23, 1543, signed by Henry. The signature is not at all clear and indicates that the monarch was not familiar with letters. The text of the document was beautifully lettered in ancient black letter old English. It starts off:
"Henry, by the Grace of God, King of England and of France, Defender of the Faith, Lord of France." The whole letter is in the hand of England. It is signed, as most of the early documents were, not at the bottom, but at the top.

There is a letter signed by Catherine of Arragon, Henry's first queen. It was written to the Duchess of Savoy in France, in 1500. There is a signature of Jane Seymour, third wife of Henry.
It reads, "The whole letter is in the hand of England." The whole letter is in the hand of England. It is signed, as most of the early documents were, not at the bottom, but at the top.

Henry was succeeded by Bloody Mary, who is represented by a document, dated September, 1557, and signed in an old English and rather scrawly hand: "Mary, the Queen."

The famous Richard the Third has his signature in the collection. This famous hunchback king of England was born with teeth in his mouth, and his reputation for wickedness has been emphasized by Shakespeare.

A fascinating document is a specially personal sort in a request for a passport addressed to King Henry V of England. There are two signatures of Oliver Cromwell. Of interest to Americans is an initialed signature of George the Third, King of England during the American Revolution. It is affixed to some military instructions and the letters: "G. R." are in letters nearly two inches high and in a graceful, flowing script.

There are many others of almost equal interest. Among them are signatures of Queen Anne of England, Anne of Austria, Queen of France, Napoleon and Josephine, his wife, and the father, mother and brother, Joseph, of Napoleon, the latter being King of Spain. A 1550 signature of Pope Clement VII, and several lines and the signature of Pope Second are included as well as signatures of Catherine of Russia and Peter the Great.

of the valley, the Appleton Post-Crescent has issued a number which has seldom been equalled in the state in size, beauty of typography or completeness of detail in telling the story of the development of the three cities of Appleton, Neenah editions of a Wisconsin newspaper so far this year.

JUST FOLKS

GRANDMA.
I know what makes a Grandma grand—she always has a treat.
A cookie or a piece of cake or apple pie to eat.
And when we go to visit her she gets the good things out.
And we don't have to ask for more as long as she's about.
Then Ma will say:
"That's all today."
You mustn't tell them ill,
I know you will,
Tonight we'll walk the floor."

A Grandma never punishes or says that we are bad.
She always takes up on her knee and tells us
she is glad.
To have us racing round the house, and when we get too smart.
An' Fa an' Ma are awful cross, she always takes our part.
And once when I
Had told a lie
And had to go to bed
Without my tea,
And brought me jam and bread.

Ma says it's funny Grandma acts the way she does today.
When she was Grandma's little girl she couldn't disobey.
Or only eat the things she liked an' get the stomach ache.
Or pick the chocolate frosting off an' never touch the cake.
When she was bad
She always had
The punishment to bear.
But we can be Much worse than she
An' Grandma doesn't care.

Pa says that Grandma's are alike. Their job of training's done.
They don't like to see us come along and spoil
the children's fun.
They love to see the youngsters eat, an' though it isn't right
They never have to walk the floor or stay up all the night.

An' children know
The times when they go
To Grandma's house to play.
Though bad they are,
Their Ma and Pa
Can't have a word to say.

Who's Who Today

CHARLES E. TOWNSEND.

Charles E. Townsend, former United States senator from Michigan, is being prominently mentioned for the office of public trustee.
The Michigan commission to succeed Obadiah Gardner of Maine, who has resigned, it is understood that Mr. Townsend's friends are enthusiastically backing him for the place on the American side of this commission, which has jurisdiction over American-Canadian boundary disputes.

Mr. Townsend attracted attention when, as senator, he championed the cause of Senator Truman H. Newberry in the fight waged to unseat Newberry. Townsend's stand was the cause of his failure to win re-election.
Townsend was first elected to congress in 1903 and was re-elected every term until the sixty-second congress. It was while serving as congressman from the second Michigan district that he was nominated at the primaries for senator and he was elected on January 18, 1911.

Townsend was born in Concord, Michigan, in 1859. He was educated at Jackson high school and the University of Michigan. In 1885 he was admitted to the bar and started his practice in Jackson. Later he was made register of deeds of Jackson county in 1888 and was made delegate to the Republican national convention. For four years previous to his election to congress Townsend was a member of the Michigan state central committee.

A headline in the newspapers tells us that Henry Ford announces that his cash balance still exceeds two hundred million dollars. We wonder how many editorialists would be written in the radical and yellow press showing the awful danger confronting the country if any one man had more money than Henry Ford had made, such an announcement. A hundred others that we could mention would be held up as men sucking the life blood out of the people if the news went forth that they had such an amount of money available. Of course these assertions would be rot, but the fact that it was not rot would be evidence in the slightest the literary gentlemen seeking a sensation in the public press. (From a letter of Wm. H. Burdett, president of the National Founders' Association.)

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

May 5, 1883.—There are now confined in the Rock County jail ten prisoners. The last tramp was turned out this morning, bare-headed, but Sheriff Harper bought him a hat and started him on his way. The only other inmate of the Jail, of the others, one is a drunk from Beloit, the others are regular crooks.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

May 5, 1893.—Bowling as a national sport has gained considerable favor, here as elsewhere in the past few years. John M. Whitehead is to be the main speaker at the Memorial day program.
E. Ray Inman will be marshal of the day. Railway telegraphers in large cities are causing trouble, and if they strike, local men will also go out.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

May 5, 1903.—Weathered oak is winning favor

it are being produced by the Chouteau-Hollister

the Janesville Public Library last night, this making all books accessible to the public, and being a radical change from old systems.

TEN YEARS AGO

May 5, 1913.—There were 20 births here dur-

WEANING WITHOUT A STRUGGLE

It is safe to wean a well baby any time after he is six months old. It is a serious matter to wean a baby at a month or two old. The best age for weaning is nine to 10 months.
Few American mothers can nurse a baby successfully after he is 10 months old. No mother should wean her baby under six months of age. It can give him even two breast feedings a day. If the baby is accustomed to taking water from a bottle from the beginning, the mother the first few months perhaps, modified milk if nursing alone is insufficient, the mother will find the weaning problem simplified and solve it without a struggle. Neither the season of the year nor the phase of the moon should be considered. Weaning is as safe in hot weather as in any other season, provided the cows milk to be given the baby is clean and the household can afford proper refrigeration.
The old time fear of weaning in the summer months was occasioned by infantile diseases due to uncleanliness.

It is best to wean by giving the baby one more bottle feeding and one less breast feeding each day or two until the breast feeding is discontinued by the end of about 10 days. Once it has been discontinued, the best results are obtained by adhering rigidly to the program, giving the bottle feedings by the clock and never resuming breast feeding even for a single occasion. The mother should wear a comfortable, but not tight, bandage or brasier for support for a week, and then give the breasts no further attention. Any kind of interference only prolongs lactation and adds to the annoyance of weaning.

It is well to start the baby on a modified milk formula which is perhaps weaker than a baby of his age might be able to handle, and to increase the strength of the formula a little every few days until he takes the proper modification for his age and condition. Thus a baby at the age of eight months should be given a modified milk formula which would ordinarily be given to a baby of four months.

The superstition about the "second summer" is just another way of saying "dirty milk," or uncleanly handling of the milk or the use of inferior milk. It is a dangerous preparation of the baby's food.
The urine is indeed a dangerous factor for the luckless infants in the dirty old days of the nursing bottle with the rubber hose on it, when

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Ment and Water.
Harmful to eat meat and drink water at the same meal? (A.) No.
Answer—Not if you are hungry, and thirsty.

Swim and Grow Graceful.
Desire to become a trifle plumper, but my family tell me I swim too much. (A.) Swim in the winter months in an indoor pool, and in the summer time in the lake. I am 53 inches tall and weigh 115 pounds. I am 22 years old. (Miss E. B.)

Answer—The swimming is all right.
You should wear a bathing cap, and more. Suggestions for gaining weight will be mailed you on receipt of your request and a stamped envelope bearing your name.

Diaphragm Mystery.
I have what corrector called an enlarged diaphragm, but without corsets several months. (Mrs. D. J.)

Answer—The corrector are joking, though they may not know it.
The diaphragm is a muscle membrane like a tent between the chest cavity and the abdominal cavity.

Can't Keep This Acid Notion Down.
Such things as urine may be too acid in the system as shown by testing the urine? (M. C. B.)

Answer—The urine may be too highly acid in many conditions when there is no lowering of the normal alkalinity of the blood, and the acidity of the blood and the tissues may be lowered, in the state of acidosis, although the urine is not too highly acid or the urine may even be neutral or alkaline. Much incorrect speculation has been based upon such errors.

Q. Can the present marathon dancing be classed as dancing music?
E. D.

A. Not exactly. Dancing music is a recognized form of music, and marathon dancing is a new and unusual type of dancing music.

larly during the middle ages. The dancers of those days seemed to lose that he may soon make a tour of

Q. What can be put in the transmission of an automobile or tractor that will lighten the noise, but will not injure the gears? R. S.

A. The American Motor school says the pulverized cork may be used to lighten the noise. One quart is sufficient to use.

Q. Please give a recipe for spiced cherries.
G.

A. Make a syrup of five pounds of sugar, one pint of vinegar, three tablespoonsful of cinnamon and two tablespoonsful of cloves. Cool, and add seven pounds of unspiced cherries.
Cook rapidly from 20 to 25 minutes.
Pack into jars while hot and seal at once.

Q. What will prevent plaster models from sticking to mold? M. G.

A. The bureau of standards says plaster models which are used for making plaster models are painted with oil and water to prevent the plaster from sticking to the mold.
This soap treatment will also prevent the adhesion of wax to plaster. It is best to use ordinary laundry soap with very little water—in fact the consistency of the mixture should be such that it will be jelly-like when cool, so that it must be applied hot.

Did You Ever Think of This?

In the average home the expenditure in one day for amusements and luxuries exceeds the amount of the month's gas bill. In many homes the money spent for newspapers is as much as the cost of cooking with gas for the family. It is doubtful if any other commodity gives as much value for the amount of money it costs as does gas. Truly, gas service is the friend of the household.

Violent Setback
Features Market
Trading of Week

New York — Stock market prices sustained a violent setback which carried most of them to new low levels for the year during the five successive days of reaction in this week's stock market. The violence of the decline was regarded by some as the beginning of the bear market but others still held to the theory that the bull market which began in the summer of 1921 had not yet been completed.

While speculators for the decline conducted their attacks on the list with scant regard of outside news developments there were several factors during the week that contributed to bearish sentiment. These included the decreasing tendency of commodities prices with additional cuts in such import products as crude oil, gasoline, raw and refined sugar, copper, lead and zinc. Thousands upon thousands of shares of popular railroad and industrial stocks were thrown into the market by professional operators for the decline. Failure of the market to absorb these offerings except to concessions, touched off a number of stop losses orders and resulted in extensive forced liquidation by small investors and speculators which accelerated the downward tendency.

Among some of the more important issues to sell at new low levels for the year were United States and Bethlehem steels, Baldwin Locomotive, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Pan American B. Co., and Texas Company, National Lead, American Sugar, Chicago Valley, Atlantic Coast Line and Delaware and Western.

The week was not without its constructive developments. Statistics were published showing that April pig iron and automobile production had exceeded all previous records; railroad car loadings for the third week of April surpassed those of any previous week this year with an unprecedented total of 80,140 cars of forest products and new high records for the year in the loadings of general merchandise and livestock.

Unusually favorable earnings statements were published by a number of prominent industrial companies, particularly in the automotive field.

Reductions of the federal reserve system increased $2,700,000 reaching the highest total for the year and the ratio of total reserves to deposits and federal reserve liabilities combined dropped from 77 to 75.2 percent. The time money market was easier, loans for all maturities being arranged at 5 1-4 percent.

Exports Grow
in Every Line of Manufacture

New York — Increased activity on the part of American manufacturers is evidenced by the latest foreign trade figures. They show an increase of 29 per cent in exportations of manufactures and 32 per cent in importations of manufacturing materials when comparing the figures with those of one year earlier. These figures, says, the Trade Record of the National City Bank of New York, relate on the export side to the month of January, 1923 and on the import side to the month of December, 1922.

They indicate that the exports of manufactures in the fiscal year which ends with the month of June will exceed by nearly $150,000,000 the total for the immediately preceding year, and will be 60 per cent greater than the value of manufactures exported in the year preceding the war. The total exports of manufactures in the fiscal year 1923 will approximate $1,750,000,000 against a little more than $1,000,000,000 in 1914, three-quarters of a billion in 1910 and less than a half billion in 1900.

This continuation since the close of the war in the growth of exportation of manufactures which was apparent in the pre-war period suggests that the closer examination of the world obtained during the war of the product of the American factory is giving further assurance of the permanence of exports of manufactures.

Not only is there a steady increase in the total value of manufactures exported from the country, but manufactures form a steadily increasing share in the grand total of our exports, since our growing population demands a steadily increasing proportion of the output of our fields and mines. Foodstuffs and manufacturing material combined formed 54 per cent of our domestic exports in 1920, 73 per cent in 1920, 64 per cent in 1920, and 54 per cent in 1922. On the other hand, manufactures which formed but 15 per cent of our exports in 1920 were 21 per cent in 1920, 35 per cent in 1920 and 46 per cent in 1922.

This big growth in the exportation of manufactures and the ability of the manufacturers to fill the gap in the export trade caused by the increased domestic consumption of the natural products, is coincidental with the increase in capital devoted to manufacturing. This growth in the capital devoted to the production of manufactures has been especially rapid during the present century. The census of 1900 showed the total capital of the factories of the country at $5,000,000,000, while the 1920 census put the total at $15,000,000,000, or five times as much as twenty years earlier. The growth of capital engaged in manufacturing has been quite as rapid as the increased output of the factories. The total capital invested in manufacturing is set down by the census of 1922 at $44,688,000,000, against $3,975,000,000 as recorded by the census of 1900, while the output of manufactures reported by the 1920 census is $62,418,000,000 against $1,406,000,000 according to the census of 1900.

Sounds Warning
Against Inflation
and Overtrading

(Crews Report)

Wall Street, New York. — Action by the Government in applying for an injunction against trading in sugar has been more fully appraised during the past week. The injunction which accompanied the application relating to the possibility of similar procedure in other directions have naturally left some doubt as to what the future might hold in store, but the attitude of the market during the past week has been one that was inclined to minimize the effects of the Government action. So the course of events has been left to shape itself more largely on economic than on political grounds during the past few days.

Efforts are undoubtedly making to guard against industrial inflation. The curtailment of the oil output announced as a definite policy by some of the larger concerns on the Pacific Coast, the effort of Government and other authorities to prevent the pyramiding of prices and commodities and the disapproval of further price advances which is evidently common to a good many leaders in business have all operated toward the slowing down of those branches of trade in which things have been going ahead more rapidly than appears warranted.

Warnings against overtrading and the too rapid advance of values were numerous at the meetings of the council of the American Bankers' Association during the past week, and there is some evidence that these cautionary intonations are likely to be given serious attention by the smaller bankers of the country who have been responsible for a good deal of overtrading in the recent past. Federal Reserve banks, although apparently watching the situation closely, have not yet thought it necessary to make any change in their discount rates because they have felt but very slight effects of the expansion of credit at member banks. The slow growth of their portfolios, indicative as it is of abun-

LATEST MARKET REPORT

FINANCE

Wall Street Review.
New York.—Prices made further recovery from recent heaviness in Saturday's brief session of the stock market. Covering operations by bear traders were largely responsible for the advance, which was most effective in the equipment, steel, copper, oil, and a selected assortment of railroads.

Railroad shares showed little change. Another cut in mid-continent crude prices, the third within the fortnight, caused a renewal of selling pressure against a few oil stocks.

Phillips Petroleum and Royal Dutch each lost a point. Local gas shares also registered material losses in reaction to the passage of unfavorable legislation in Albany. The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 415,000 shares.

The rally, which began in the latter part of Friday's stock market, continued at Saturday's opening, stocks on virtually all sections of the list opening 3 1/2 to 5 1/2 points higher. Short covering operations furnished the impetus for the advance, which was most effective in the equipment, steel, copper, oil, and a selected assortment of railroads.

Bear traders covered extensively in the first half hour, apparently fearing to be short of too much stock over the week-end. Early gains were in equipment, steel, and oil. The sugar stocks, assuming the lead in the advance, were up 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 points. Foreign exchanges opened irregular, demand sterling advanced 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cents, and French francs advanced 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cents.

It Is Not Necessary to Be Stingy to Save

There is a wide difference between saving and being stingy.

Stinginess is a petty trait that prompts men to save at the expense of others.

Saving is that golden trait by which we school ourselves to do without needless luxuries, present pleasures and com-

HERE'S ANOTHER CORKER! $2.50 FOR YOU

You have another chance to get a price of $2.50. Here is a picture for which you are to pick a title. Remember this picture has never been named. Even the artist that drew it did not name it but he had a notion that there ought to be a good title for it and the people who read the Gazette should be able to pick a good name for the picture. There are a few simple rules, the most important one being that you must write on a postal card and you cannot have more than 12 words in the title. Do not enclose titles in envelopes. Titles must be in this office by Thursday night. Otherwise they will not be considered by the judges. Address Title Editor, the

NURSES TO PRESENT PLAY ON MAY 12TH
Rehearsals are being held by the members of the graduating class of the Mercy hospital training school for nurses for the play, "Florence Nightingale," to be given by them at the Janesville high school auditorium, Saturday, May 12.

"THIS ACT IS SURE TO BE A SCREAM"

With the title "This Act Is Sure to Be a Screamer," Miss Grace Caldwell, 138 S. Ringold street, this city, wins the $2.50 title prize this week. As usual, many good titles were sent in and the judges had to decide on a shade of meaning. Many are finding the title contest Saturdays an amusing way to keep the brain busy and in addition to take a big chance on winning $2.50 which does not come at all badly for a little brain effort.

The picture this week is a good one to think up a variety of titles for, so get out your paper and pencil, see how many you can make out, then select the best one or two. Remember, though, they must be sent in on postal cards. Some have been sending good titles in letters and they cannot even be considered because of the contest rules. Some of the other titles that were good this week were "Ain't It a Screamer?" sent in by Mrs. Henry H. Lark, Ft. Atkinson; "An Invasion of Pears," William Brittain, Whitewater; "A Case of Stage Fright," Alice M. Arnold; Rte. 1, Janesville; "If They Only Knew Their Audience," R. R. Beek, 116 Oakland avenue; "Sound Equals the Attitude; One Reserve Seat Sold," Roetta G. Cripps, 406 Center St., Whitewater; and "Charming Even to a Small Addition," Mrs. H. A. Rogers, Clinton. As seen by the above list, Janesville people are sending even less than those from other places in the county. You've got until Thursday night to get the titles into this office.

Funds Assured for Taylor's Work

In some unknown way, funds have been secured for continuation of the work of the state tax commission and assessors of incomes offices, according to information received by F. A. Wounded Woman Still in Hospital
Mrs. Alfred Miller, who suffered a broken arm when her husband, who had been shot with a shot-gun, Apr. 1, with the intention to kill, probably will remain in Mercy hospital some time. Miller turned the gun on himself and committed suicide. The tragedy occurred at the Miller home, 21 South Academy street. Mrs. Miller's arm still is black and is yet in slacks. It is probable she will have little use of it and it may be necessary to amputate it, although that is remote at the present time. The woman suffered considerable from the after effects of shock.

THIS IS THE TIME WHEN THE TROUT STREAM CALLS LOUDLY TO YOU

Where Trout Fishing Is the Finest of Sport

Men and Women, Properly Licensed, May, After the Fifteenth of April, Find All the Good Fishing They Want in Their Favorite Woods of New England.

About this time of the year when robins hop about at break of day, searching with confidence for the unsuspecting angle worms, the spell of the trout falls upon fishermen. A strange restlessness, much turning over and dissecting of turf in the back yard and dashes to the attic are early symptoms of fishing fever. The victims are abstracted. Wives and business may be neglected until the crisis—the first day's fishing—is past.

There is a peculiar delight in fishing for trout in May. Perhaps it is because the balmy air and the feel of the earth underfoot is pleasant after the long winter. The pungent odor of damp earth and dead leaves is a tonic, and crawling through an alder thicket, the smell of the slightest move brings down a shower of crystal dew drops, is fishermen's joy. The resiliency of the soft earth, and the mist that lurks in hollows and ravines are restful.

Nothing is quite akin to the peace of soul that comes with a gentle rain by a brook. The drops that trickle down one's face are as soothing as the touch of soft fingers on a weary brow.

Soon after the silvery hinds of the pussy willow appear in the thicket and the red winged blackbird's cheery "Oka-lee, Oka-lee" breaks the stillness of the woods, the sport of trout fishing from deep water toward rushing brooks. This delicate fish does not like snow-water and will not be found in brooks in large numbers until the snow has melted and the earth shows through it.

Not until the silvery hinds of the pussy willow appear in the thicket and the red winged blackbird's cheery "Oka-lee, Oka-lee" breaks the stillness of the woods, the sport of trout fishing from deep water toward rushing brooks. This delicate fish does not like snow-water and will not be found in brooks in large numbers until the snow has melted and the earth shows through it.

Often, fishing is best at dawn and soon after sundown. The true fisherman frequently sets out for his favorite brook in the small hours of night to be on the ground at dawn. The twilight hour when shadows creep through thickets is a situation too. During the heat of day trout are inclined to lie close to the bottom of pools and the angler must be most skilled to capture them.

Angle worms, favorite bait of the traditional barefoot boy, is the lure most attractive in trout at the opening of the season. Later, when minnows are used, and then, with the hatching of insects, the fly fisherman comes into his own. The fisherman has but to follow the ways of nature. Worms appear on the surface of the earth with warm spring rains. Many are washed into brooks to be devoured by trout. So it is, the unsuspecting fish find the angler's bait. The worm equally deserving of attention during or soon after a gentle rain. As the earth dries under increasing heat, the worms seek lower strata. But insects are hatching and trout accept them as a welcome change of diet.

"Brook trout are as shy. The slightest vibration of the earth frightens them and fishermen who boldly scramble along the banks are sure to find it a bad day for fishing. A new chapter, the movement in whippersnappers the tiny ones get a hint of his intentions. Trout fishing is not sport for a crowd. The lone angler has the best chance, but fishermen who know the game usually find it more pleasant to go in twos and threes for companionship. Arguments and Ruck.

The fisherman usually is a sportsman of strong convictions, not adverse to controversy if one question his opinion. One man upon arriving at a brook will insist it is best, and cite precedents, to fish upstream. His companion is likely to insist fishing downstream is the only method. Usually they "compromise," each going his way bent upon proving his way is right.

While the light trout rod is beautiful and perfect in balance and weight, it is not indispensable early in the season. A light rod cut from a thicket serves the purpose when using worms for bait, for many a gamy trout has been landed on a crooked pole. A reel cannot be used on such a rod, but so much early fishing is done with a short line and at close range that chances of landing the catch with such a rod are excellent. However, he who loves the thrill of the vibrations that speed along a slender trout rod when fish strike will not find the same delicate response in the heavier natural rod. One is an instrument of exquisite model, built to add to the pleasure. The other, no less a masterpiece, seems reluctant to betray the creature of the woods. It lacks quick cooperation.

Fishermen have tricks which each believes contribute to success. One is to fasten a small cork on the line a short distance above the hook—six inches to a foot according to the brook. Its delicate flavor is lost. That is a matter of opinion, but it is rare pleasure to cook your trout by a brook. It may be the surroundings, the smell of wood smoke and the call of bluebirds, the sight of a venturesome butterfly zig-zagging over a meadow or the silvery tinkle of the water, that makes fish seem more delicious than any treat is a small fry pan and a few slices of bacon. Of course it is taken for granted several man-sized sandwiches and perhaps a few hard-boiled eggs are in the creel. Small, light frying-pans with folding handles may be purchased in any sportsman's shop.

From Pool to Pan. While most fishermen dare not go home without proof of their skill, there are a few of the old school who believe unless trout is eaten by the brookside its delicate flavor is lost. The third national conference on state parks will be held in picturesque Turkey Run State park, near Indianapolis, May 7, at a 3-day session. Judge John Barton Payne of Chicago and Washington, former secretary of the interior and president for twelve years of the South Park commissioners of Chicago, is serving his second term as chairman of the national conference. He believes the establishment of new state parks will not only serve to strengthen the national policy of conservation, but will prove a boon to thousands of motorists.

All the club women of America are invited to attend the National Biennial Council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at Atlanta, Ga., May 7 to 11, by the hostess organization which is the Atlanta Woman's Club. This is one of the up-and-coming women's clubs of the country. It is the first club to entertain the National Federation and, in doing this, it will also give a house-warming for its fine new quarter-of-a-million-dollar club plant and house. The subject of the conference will be "Spiritual Forces." Among the women who will take a prominent part in the program will be Mrs. Winter, president; Mrs. Floore, treasurer; Mrs. White, chairman of the department of legislation; Mrs. Godfrey, secretary; and Mrs. Read, press chairman.

Joseph Conrad, seafaring novelist, was greeted by hundreds of his Polish countrymen when he arrived in New York recently. Conrad is a son of Jozef Korzeniowski, also a celebrated author, and has spent much time on the sea since he was fifteen.

Miss Ellis, kidnapped by Indian tribesmen.

Tribesmen near the northwest frontier of India at Kohat are reported to have slain the wife of Captain Ellis, British army officer, and kidnapped their eighteen-year-old daughter. According to reports, the landais have escaped pursuing authorities, with the prisoner.

Dorothy Hopkins.

A New York court will decide whether Robert Thompson Hopkins is entitled to $500,000 for the alleged loss of affections of his wife or whether his estimate is exorbitant. He is suing Joseph Fleischman for alienation.

Jess Willard, as he looks today, left, and how he hopes to drag Floyd Johnson, right, when they meet. Consider Jess Willard. On one hand we have the stories that he has gone too far along the road to middle age and become too fat and lazy to return to fighting form. And on the other paw we have this late picture, which shows him apparently in better shape than he was the day he fought Jack Dempsey. What do you make of it, Watson? The first bet is that Willard is serious, in fair shape, and ready to end Floyd Johnson's hopes in a few rounds. Willard has told friends that he will knock Johnson out in a couple of rounds. If Willard ever does get that man-killing right of his across before Johnson does anything it will be curtains for Floyd.

JUNIOR MEAT SHOW IN MADISON OCT. 24

Announcement Made by J. C. Robinson, President
W. L. B. A.

Three dates—Oct. 24, 25 and 26—will soon be marked on the calendars of many Rock county farm boys and girls.

Those are the days of the great annual junior meatmen's tournament, held under the auspices of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association. Exhibits of well fed and fitted lambs, pigs and baby hogs will be shown by boys and girls from all over the state.

Nominations in each of the divisions have already been received by county agents, officials of county and state breeders' associations, representatives of the Wisconsin colleges of agriculture, and many of the counties. Already entries for the different classes close on Aug. 1, the last date and entries are canvassing their possibilities in order to get off well at the outset.

According to the announcement just made by the Rock county agent, the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association, the 1923 clinic will be an outstanding representation of Wisconsin's meat making resources. The official notice to judges groups, Robinson announces but three restrictions in the exhibition. These are: All animals exhibited must be fed, fitted, entered and shown by the exhibitor.

One of the innovations in this year's exhibition will be the addition of the litter contest in which competitors will be open to young and old alike. This project is having full support of the state association, the college of agriculture and each of the respective swine breeders' associations.

The goal of the litter competition will be to produce a ton of pork, or its equivalent, from a single litter. The lamb show will be staged under the direction of committees consisting of M. F. Hogan of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association, R. E. Reynolds of the Wisconsin Sheep Breeders' association, and Frank Kleinheinz of the Wisconsin college of agriculture.

Presenting the baby hogs for inspection and award the officers of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association will be assisted by committees consisting of the following: M. F. Hogan, John C. Robinson of the Wisconsin Hereford Breeders' association, and James G. Fuller of the Wisconsin Aberdeen-Angus breeders' association.

The judges of each of the divisions of the show have already been chosen. They are: Baby hogs—Hugh Robinson, Rock county; Arthur McKivitt, Grant county; Eben E. Jones, La Crosse county; Pigs and litters—W. C. Barthol, Racine county; William Ditts, Rock county; Edward Diven, Green county; Lambs—Valter Renk, Dane county; Roy Bruchman, Vernon county; W. G. Miles, Rock county.

DAIRYMEN'S FIELD DAY AT WEST BEND, JUNE 16
Wisconsin Dairymen's field day will be held on the farm of C. A. Schroeder (Cedar Lawn), near West Bend, Washington county, June 16. Jerry Rindard is chairman of the program. Dean H. L. Russell, Frank Lowden and O. John J. Blaine will be among the speakers.

WISCONSIN TOBACCO MARKET.
Edgerton.—The Wisconsin Tobacco Market, Edgerton, Wis., has been somewhat more reasonable during the past week and the market is on the upswing. The weather has been somewhat in the way of the starting of the 1923 tobacco crop. The work of stemming the buds is in the hands of the growers. Some instances were taken to the market, and despite these strenuous efforts some growers will probably be unable to secure outlets to do their stemming in time to receive the remunerated seed which will be paid for the tobacco ground. Long and strenuous hours are in store for the farmers for some time to come.

The market is rather quiet, as is to be expected. There is still quite a bit of independence of tobacco. Considerable buyers are continually picking up crops here and there. At Jones, Janesville, it is reported that the market is a number of crops of '23 leaf in the Stoughton-Oregon districts at prices around 14 to 15 cents. In Stoughton, some buyers bought the Hardwick Bros' '23 crop at 16c. This farm has also received the last of their purchases of northern goods, last week and have work ahead to run well into the summer. The buyers are picking up a few crops where prices are reasonable.

Pool agents are out weighing up the crops of unsold pool tobacco which will be delivered at the pool warehouses and auctioned at the pool. Some buyers have been delivered at the pool and warehouse work began at that point Monday with a small force which will be increased as occasion demands. Some goods are received at the pool warehouse in Edgerton and Milton. Devine expects to start warehouse work next Monday. All pool tobacco not sold in the bundle will be packed and a clean-up of the '23 crop made as soon as possible.

The Millionth

Buick

The actual manufacture of a million Buicks has been accomplished by the development of an organization of huge proportions by the expansion of manufacturing facilities and the creation of manufacturing methods to insure the finest possible workmanship and quality.

The development of a car of sufficient value to attract a million buyers has brought a growth of dealer and service organizations everywhere, to guarantee further the high standard of Buick performance.

Buick's millionth car is tangible evidence of the quality that has made Buick everywhere "The Standard of Comparison."

Looking After The Oil Screen

It Must Be Clean Or Oil Will Not Flow.

THE METAL GAUZE OIL STRAINER in the crankcase of the engine, surrounding the intake of the pump, is designed to prevent solid particles, that collect in the oil, from entering the pump and being forced to the bearing surfaces. These particles of decomposed oil and carbon are caught by the meshes of the strainer and, in time, obstruct them so that oil can pass to the pump less rapidly than the pump calls for it, the result being that the supply of oil to engine bearings is reduced or even cut off. Keeping the strainer clean and free for the flow to flow is thus a very important matter. In most engines the strainer is so arranged as to be quite readily removable, it being quite commonly held by a flange, which can be unholted from the outside of the oil pan and taken out when the oil suction pipe has been detached. The best practice is to clean it thoroughly each time the oil is changed or at least after each flushing out of the system, which process loosens most of the solid matter and causes it to attach itself to the strainer, when the engine is run, during the cleaning out process. The actual cleaning of the screen is best done by "brushing" it in kerosene or forcing clean kerosene through from the inside. Great care should be taken that no dirt or lint be left upon the inside of the gauze, as this will be carried into the pump. In replacing the filter, be sure that it and its pipe are secured in an oil-tight manner.

CAUSE OF MUFFLER EXPLOSIONS

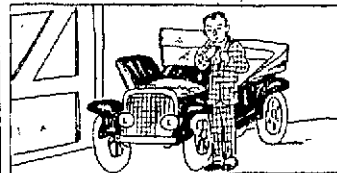

W. H. S. writes: The engine of my four-cylinder car annoys me by firing in the muffler, when a hill is being coasted, with the gas shut off. It runs perfectly regular and does not make this explosion when it is pulling. I have tried everything to stop this. Can you suggest a remedy?

Answer: Engines of certain models are prone to do this. When throttled very closely, an occasional charge is missed and, as the engine is being turned over by the momentum of the car, faster than it would run under the force of its own explosions, the exhaust valve opens while an exploded charge is still burning and fires the missed charge, previously exhausted into the muffler. Your engine may miss occasionally, when closely throttled, on account of a slight air-leak or simply because the spark-plug position is badly chosen. Often the use of a somewhat over-rich mixture, at nearly closed throttle, will prevent missing and subsequent muffler explosions. Throwing out of gear and letting the engine idle, while coasting, should do away with the explosions.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

TESTING FOR DEFECTIVE PLUG CORES

H. E. M. asks: How can one test a spark-plug too see if its porcelain is broken?

Answer: Sometimes the connection end of the porcelain can be twisted with the fingers, without moving the other end and a grating noise can be heard when the plug is held close to the ear and the porcelain twisted or otherwise strained. However, the core may be broken down electrically without evidencing the fact in these ways. A useful test is the following. Connect the plug to its cable, lay it on the cylinder-block and run the engine. If sparks do not pass at the points and the plug is clean, the porcelain is broken down. If, on the contrary, sparks pass properly, take a narrow strip of mica and place it between the points of the plug so as to increase the length of the spark path to 6-16 or 4-8 inch by making the discharge take place around the edge of the mica. If sparks thus deflected into this elongated path, still pass properly, the porcelain is probably all right. The construction of some plugs prevents this test.
